Dear
sweetheart

how are you, I am in southern India at the moment, hope you're looking after your mother.

8th May 1945 V E Day

I dashed down the long country lane and shouted to my best friend, the war, the war is over.

We hugged and started crying, we chatted a lot about our fathers coming home, and how the war was over, "6 long hard brutal years of war," I exclaimed.

Then I saw my other friends, they started hurdling down the narrow country lane. "I am so glad I live in the country, and I wasn't an evacuee," I said as I smiled at my best friend, "they won't come back till next year, because it needs to be completely safe, NEXT YEAR."

1 Hour later

We sat around the wood table in the streets, whilst we watched the jelly, the jam sandwiches, then the Lord Bolton and Homity pie come out of my neighbours house, quickly followed by eggless fruit cake, corned beef hash, liver casserole, pork faggots, white salad and carrot scones. Well as for the drinks, there was gallons of hot tea and squash, after that I felt rather full, but luckily I was still able to dance and play musical chairs, me and my friends started to dance, we giggled and I loved it.

8th May

I got home that night, my eyes were drooping, I was awfully tired.
I just slumped into my bed,
after all it was 12am, it was the best day of my life, I don't think I will ever feel like this again.
